Copyright in the digital age - 25th March 2010

09.30 Refreshments

10.00 An Introduction to Using Other People's Stuff... Online
By Jason Miles-Campbell and Jackie Milne (JISC Legal)

This session sets out the legal landscape which must be understood in order to get confident in compliant use of other people's copyright works online. This is a practical, contextual guide to the tools which will allow compliant use of materials as part of e-learning. It will cover knowing what's in copyright, who owns copyright, what exceptions are available, using licences, and asking permission.

10.45 Copyright Challenges in a Digital Age
By Gursharn Sangha (CLA)

Gursharn will explain the role of the CLA and the CLA licence. We've known and loved the CLA photocopying licence for many years, but the CLA scanning provisions allow us to take materials online without chasing rights holders in many e-learning situations. This session will explain what you can do with the licence, and how.

11.30 Ten Top Tips for Confident Copyright Compliance
By Jason Miles-Campbell and Jackie Milne (JISC Legal)

That's right – ten top tips in 45 minutes or so... Can we do it? Yes, we can! To round off the event, we'll distil the best of the best to give you practical techniques to take e-learning forward (without fear of infringement) at your institution. No more paraphrasing textbooks. No more attempting to recreate the Mona Lisa. Know where you stand with copyright, and use it to your advantage.

12.15 Round up and Q & A session

12.30 Light lunch & networking opportunity
